

please do not remove the few remaining protections the public has against total media consolidation. please do not turn the rest of the media into what radio has become. the keepers of the digital technology that many argue makes regulation unnecessary (us geeks, in other words) are almost unanimous in our opposition to further consolidation. we understand that more channels doesn't mean more choice if all the channels are from the same companies. on behalf of a sensible and informed community of geeks, i urge you not to lift the limitations on broadcast ownership.
